

2024 Cymru Wales Awards

Infrastructure Project of the Year Award 2024

This Award is aimed at projects which are outstanding examples of transportation projects that demonstrate a contribution to the mobility of the community in Cymru Wales region greater than £250k construction value or have a significant research/policy impact or a study that influences the transportation discipline at a strategic level to deliver the values discussed in the guidelines introduction document.

This award recognises exceptional engineering solutions that have delivered creative and resilient infrastructure. From good asset management and maintenance to the construction of bridges, tunnels and other civil engineering infrastructure, this award recognises both small and large schemes projects that have showcased civil engineering in the best way possible. The judges will be looking for entries that can demonstrate how the infrastructure brings public benefit, as well as clear demonstration of how social value is embedded in the scheme.

Entries can include (but not limited to):

- Infrastructure and civil engineering projects
- The use of asset management principles that have improved outcomes for organisations and the infrastructure.
